

Bypass screensaver timeout set by global group policy?

---

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.active\_directory/2006-03/msg01960

---

- From: ekrem2@xxxxxxxxxx
  - Date: 26 Mar 2006 19:49:03 -0800
-

Hi sysadmins,

The global group policy for the domain has screensaver password enforced to lock keyboard after 15 mins. This is fine, except I need to turn off the screensaver for one particular workstation (which still needs to be part of the domain).

Is there an easy way to bypass the global group policy this setting?

Thanks in advance.

.