Hi

Weird you you deleted that account you should be able to rename it, did you already tried in a different workstation?

That error is only showed when a duplicated name exist.

Can you state the exact error that you're seeing and the steps that you took?

I have a 14 computer network: 1 server and 13 workstations all running win2k

I recently had to remove #13 and place #8 in its place. Everything is fine but I am unable to rename #8 to #13 since I get an error message saying there are credential conflicts. I already deleted #13 on the server under "active directory users and computers" in administrative tools. Even after I restart everything the server must still retain information somewhere for the old #13

since I can't rename #8 to #13.
