Hello,

I have 2 domains. An NT 4.0 domain and a Windows 2000 domain. The trust between these 2 domains do not exist for security reasons. All my current machines both in the NT domain and 2000 domain recieve dns resolution via a primary dns box located in the 2000 domain. Will upgrading this dns to "active directory integrated" have any effect on the NT 4.0 machines that are in the old NT domain? What would be my best option?

Thanks for all your help,

Steve
