

microsoft.public.windows.server.general: Re: The device 'generic volume' cannot be stopped

Re: The device 'generic volume' cannot be stopped

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.general/2004-07/1578.html>

From: Arek Iskra [MVP] (arek_nospam_at_arekiskra.com)

Date: 07/21/04

Date: Wed, 21 Jul 2004 20:08:22 +0800

Do you have write caching on that drive enabled? Try stopping the device a while later and see how it goes.

--

Arek Iskra

Microsoft MVP for Windows Server - Management

"Trinh Nguyen" <anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:079f01c46e54$c2062f70$a301280a@phx.gbl...

> After defragment a removable harddrive on Windows Server > 2003, I receive an error message indicating "the > device 'generic volume' cannot be stopped because a program > is still accessing it." Please help