

Re: Win2003 Missing Login Dialog

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.general/2004-07/1609.html>

---

From: news.microsoft.com (john.bergman_at_IDontWantSpam@gogallagher.com)

Date: 07/21/04

Date: Wed, 21 Jul 2004 11:51:46 -0500

I tried that, same results.

I also tried Safe Mode, and even VGA mode.

I tried signing on as a different user, same thing...

"Arek Iskra [MVP]" <arek_nospam@arekiskra.com> wrote in message news:uAY4oYxbEHA.2340@TK2MSFTNGP10.phx.gbl...

> Presuming your login is unsuccessful, are you able to use Last Known Good > Configuration?

>

> --

> Arek Iskra

> Microsoft MVP for Windows Server – Management

>

> "John Bergmn" <john.bergman@gallagher.com> wrote in message > news:0d8f01c46eb0$3f4c9720$a401280a@phx.gbl...

>> Recently I have a computer that ran out of disk space on >> drive C. When I realized this, I signed on and got a >> warning about having to use/create a temp profile because >> there was not enough room to copy the administrator >> profile.

>>

>> I freed up about 10 gigs of space; and decided that it >> would be best to reboot to clear up anything else that >> may have gone bad.

>>

>> Upon reboot, I get a black screen with just the top part >> of the booting up dialog (ie, the dialog that is >> displayed with the logo and a moving rainbow bar). After >> that, I get the login prompt, again with only the >> logo.... I do not have the caption bar, nor visibly any >> of the controls. I can tab between what would appear to >> be the username and password area. When I enter a valid >> user name, a few minutes pass and then I get a popup >> dialog.

>>

>> The popup dialog ONLY has the warning (yellow triangle);

> > and NOTHING else... so I cannot tell what is wrong with > > login prompt. There is nothing written into any of the > > event logs that lead toward a reason for this behavior > > either.

> >
> > I have the AdminPak installed on another computer, I can > > connect to the computer and administer it. I can net use > > the drives and access them freely. The running IIS is > > working perfectly.

> >
> > It appears that this problem has only affected the > > desktop.

> >
> > Anyone have any ideas?

> >
> > *Thanks,
> > John*

>
>