

Re: can't get RIP to work with dial-up client

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.general/2004-09/0447.html>

---

From: Bill Grant (not.available_at_online)

Date: 09/05/04

Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2004 10:12:08 +1000

All I can tell you is that it works. Had the opposite problem in another newsgroup. He had to turn off RIP listener to stop getting added routes!

"Gary Roach" <jgroach@NOSPAMcogeco.ca> wrote in message news:Of9hq1ckEHA.1712@TK2MSFTNGP09.phx.gbl...

> I'm trying to get RIP running on 2003 to provide routes for a XP dial-up client. I've installed the RIP listener on the client and set the router up as follows:

>

> OPeration mode: periodic update mode

> Outgoing packet protocol: RIP version 2 multicast

> Outgoing packet protocol: RIP version 1 and 2

>

> clients connected to the server via the LAN get the routing info fine.

i've > looked at network monitor and get a RIP line:

>

> RIP request, 1 Entries (ver. 2)

>

> from the client machine but no apparent response from the server. any idea what the problem is? thanks for the help

>

> gary

>

>

> --

> Gary Roach

> ADB Services

>

>