

RE: Windows 2003 log off very slow

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.general/2004-10/0812.html>

From: Erik Szewczyk [MVP] (ErikSzewczykMVP_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 10/07/04

Date: Thu, 7 Oct 2004 09:33:01 -0700

My guess would be we're looking at something 3rd party related. Maybe a device driver or 3rd party addon.

Are these servers all running (essentially) the same hardware? Are there any additional software packages or management utilities that have been installed on all of them?

-Erik

"Gareth" wrote:

> I have installed this and there is not progress
>
> "Kristian Vidal" wrote:
>
> > Hi,
> >
> > Get a util from Microsoft called UPHClean, it helps with > > user log offs, reducing time and profile corruptions. It > > just installs as a service and runs in the background.
> > I've used it at two sites and it works like a dream. It > > will also run on 2000.
> >
> > Cheers
> > K
> >