

Re: Joining domain problem.

Re: Joining domain problem.

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.general/2005-09/msg01046.html>

---

- From: Haroon Malik <HaroonMalik@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Sun, 18 Sep 2005 07:33:02 -0700
-

Try to repair the LAN connection in properties of the LAN connection. It will clear the cache.

—

Haroon Malik

Systems Engineer

"Hank Arnold" wrote:

- > Check the TCP/IP settings on the NIC. Is DHCP enabled? Is it pointing to the
- > right DNS server?
- >
- > What is the result of IPCONFIG /ALL ? Do they match what you expect?
- >
- > Were the entries in DNS and AD correctly removed?
- >
- > Can you ping the DC by IP and/or by name?
- >
- > --
- > Regards,
- > Hank Arnold
- >
- > "Chris Ratcliffe" <chris@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
- > news:11ilulvaqv2c372@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
- >> I have a situation where a person has converted a windows xp workstation
- >> from a domain to a workgroup. (they were having problems of some sort and
- >> thought they'd try this to sort it out... who knows what they were
- >> thinking?)
- >>
- >> When they try to rejoin the domain using either the network id wizard or
- >> the change option under computer properties they get a message saying
- >> that the domain controller cannot be contacted or is unavailable.
- >>
- >> Has anyone seen this problem before? does anyone have any ideas on
- >> resolving this problem?
- >>
- >> Chris

Re: Joining domain problem.

Re: Joining domain problem.

>>
>
>
>
>
.

---

• References:

◆ Re: Joining domain problem.

◇ From: Hank Arnold

• Prev by Date: Re: Hot Swap SATA

• Next by Date: VPN woes..can't connect

• Previous by thread: Re: Joining domain problem.

• Next by thread: Re: Windows 2003 server startup problem

• Index(es):

◆ Date

◆ Thread