

Re: NT Backup and Restore

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.general/2005-11/msg00285.html>

---

- From: "Nospam" <nospam@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 10 Nov 2005 14:35:38 -0000
-

So you think it is OK to do as you want and ignore the wishes of the regular users of this group?
Fine.

>If I were to get an email from MS suggesting a different way to post then and only then would I change my > practice.

You have read the group charter for using MS News Groups have you?. If so then why are you ignoring them!!

>It was the intelligent community I was soliciting a response from anyway.

Then why respond as YOU did when someone try's to help you?

Bye

(Don't bother replying as I won't see it as I've now put you in my kill file so I don't have to read your ranting).

"Johnny Wright" <JohnnyWright@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:18FFC5CC-FC2B-484C-BE9B-0993D5A291B2@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

> And yet another insightful response from the gallary. Telling me to purchase > third party software is hardly trying to help when I explicitly stated that I > wanted to use MS Backup. I thought I typed that in plain english but I > suppose some do tend to ignore and spew out what they themselves want hear.
> I am willing to bet the two of you have matching pocket protectors.
>
> As far as learning to use a newgroup, I am completely dumbfounded that > someone is so anal retentive about a post in 2 differnt groups that they use > up their valueable time just to scould another. This truth is I simply do > not care what you think.. no really, I don't. You use this board as you see

Re: NT Backup and Restore

> fit and I will continue to do the same. If I were to get an email from MS > suggesting a different way to post then and only then would I change my > practice. I have a recommendation of my own. Why don't cretians such as > yourself create your own board and wine and bitch back and forth. It was the > intelligent community I was soliciting a response from anyway.
>
> "Nospam" wrote:
>
>> With a reply like that, SOD you.
>>
>> Someone try's to help you and you reply like that. I recommend you learn how >> to use news groups before telling people off.
>>
>> PLONK.
>>
>>
>> "Johnny Wright" <JohnnyWright@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
>> news:683A3A99-5F71-4BDA-BF78-29D93E026868@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx >>> Well gee thanks for the post Gus. I bet you troll these channels looking >> to >>> input your two cents worth. Some ppl have real jobs and are looking for >>> quick answers. If I am not sure which channel is the correct one or I >> think >>> my chances of getting an answer are quicker by posting twice then I will >> do >>> just that. I answer to my corporation not some lonely troller.
>>>
>>> Jack
>>> "Pegasus (MVP)" wrote:
>>>
>>>> Multi-posted. See Win2000.general for some answers. Multi-posting >>>> wastes everyone's time - please use cross-posting to increase the >>>> exposure of your post.
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> "Johnny Wright" <JohnnyWright@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in >> message
>>>> news:05A92856-65D9-45FE-9FA9-9A129339C1AE@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>>>>> I would like to use Windows NT backup to make a copy of the C drive
>> and >>>>> System State of my production servers. The steps I followed are:
>>>>> 1. Create a full back of drive C and include the system state of a >> server

Re: NT Backup and Restore

>>>>> 2. On a new server (different hardware) install the OS
>>>>> 3. On the new server restore the full backup and system state created >>>> earlier
>>>>>
>>>>> My problem is that when I restore the System State to a new (different >>>>> hardware) machine the server will not boot up. All of our servers are >> IBM >>>>> Eseries and Xseries so I would have thought this would work. Is there
>> a >>>> way
>>>>> that I can restore a full MS Backup including System State from one >> server
>>>>> to
>>>>> a completely different one?
>>>>>
>>>>> As to why I want to do this, it would be a fast and inexpensive way to >>>>> disaster recover a server as I would not need to re-install all of the >>>>> applications – This would save a lot of time on some of our servers
>> with >>>>> apps
>>>>> that require a lot of configuration. All data from other drives could >>>>> then
>>>>> be restored from tape backup.
>>>>>
>>>>> Any suggestions would be appreciated.
>>>>> Jack
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>
>>
>>

---

• References:

- ◆ Re: NT Backup and Restore
    ◇ From: Nospam
- ◆ Re: NT Backup and Restore

Re: NT Backup and Restore

◇ From: Johnny Wright

- Prev by Date: Re: Access denied creating a scheduled task
- Next by Date: Re: NT Backup and Restore
- Previous by thread: Re: NT Backup and Restore
- Next by thread: Re: NT Backup and Restore
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread