

Re: Port for Adding PC to Domain

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.general/2005-12/msg00269.html>

- From: "Pegasus" <Lcan@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 7 Dec 2005 14:43:14 +1100
-

"Gary Lindgren" <kate@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:ONZKG5r#FHA.4028@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

> I have Win2003 Server running. Some PCs are on a Workgroup and I would like > to add them to the domain. What port on the firewall do I open to allow > commutation from PC to server to request service.
> Thank you
>
>

I usually turn off the firewall until the workstation is registered on the domain. If this is not an option, check your firewall log – it will tell you which port was blocked.

• References:

- ◆ Port for Adding PC to Domain
◇ From: Gary Lindgren
- Prev by Date: Re: executable won't run first call from cmd shell
- Next by Date: Re: executable won't run first call from cmd shell
- Previous by thread: Port for Adding PC to Domain
- Next by thread: Volume Shadow Copy Service error in App Event Log on iSCSI Target
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread