

Re: Cannot ping DC server

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.networking/2005-10/msg00305.html>

- From: "seth" <seth@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 20 Oct 2005 15:48:56 -0400
-

is the firewall enabled?
mixing standard/enterprise editions of windows is fine

"Johnny Rio" <JohnnyRio@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:4B84D7BD-BC80-4D92-A094-6B7A7B11DA52@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>I have 4 servers all on the same subnet. I have promoted 1 server to be a > domain controller with AD. All servers are W2003 Servers with SP1 and > latest > updates. I am trying to join one of the servers to the domain but receive > a > timeout message. When I ping the server I also receive a timeout. But, I > can ping the other servers and receive replies just fine. So, does > promoting > a server as a DC close some network capabilities. My DC is a Windows 2003
> Server (Standard version) whereas my other servers are W2003 Enterprise > Ed.
> Could this have anything to do with it? The DC came with Standard version > already installed. I had installed Ent. Ed. on my other servers some time > ago. I was told the versioning differences shouldn't cause any problems.
>
> (Sorry for the cross posting with DNS group but I would bet I set up DNS > just fine. It's now another issue).
>
> Thanks,
> Johnny

-
- Prev by Date: Re: Limiting abuse of internet connections
 - Next by Date: Re: WINS is really needed
 - Previous by thread: ip dns problems
 - Next by thread: Re: Cannot ping DC server
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread