

Re: Properties for ADSL connection and port forwarding

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.sbs/2004-04/2578.html>

From: billyw (b_at_brainless.net)

Date: 04/07/04

Date: Wed, 7 Apr 2004 11:40:15 +0100

i'm a little unsure what your asking.. is it sbs 2k3 std or are u using ISA server.
with regard to port forwarding are you talking about forwarding from a adsl router/firewall..
if so then the info is on that box..

personally i dont like using the sbs to set up my router.. it usually does ok but have found that depending on router not all the settings are visible on router

"anthony" <awr@gencity.net> wrote in message news:1677201c41c6c$77907ca0$a601280a@phx.gbl...

> Hi
> Ive installed sbs2k3 and configured the ADSL connection > through the wizard, but where do I look at he properties > of this connection without just going through the > wizard... It has not created a connection for it in the > usual WinXP localation "Network connections"
>
> Which leads me to the point of how do I setup port > forwarding. I was able to do it when XP was sharing the > connection but cannot find how to do in with SBS... > primarily becuae I cannot find the connection setting as > described above.
>
> Thanks
> Anthony