

Re: How many CAL's do I need?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.sbs/2004-05/3279.html>

From: Marina Roos [SBS-MVP] (marina_at_roos.nodontwantspam.nl.com)

Date: 05/11/04

Date: Tue, 11 May 2004 19:51:07 +0200

Are you sure you want to setup your SBS as a FTP-server?????

--

Regards,

Marina

Microsoft SBS-MVP

"Andre" <emerald@spam.isle> schreef in bericht news:MPG.1b0ab7076f9e1c0d989681@news.supernews.com...

> The company has just purchased SBS 2003 Premium, which is being shipped > as I type this out. The info on licensing for this is really sketchy, > so we're not sure which way to travel with it just yet. There are some > things we need to do with it, and we're not sure how an individual CAL > applies to each case. Can someone help me determine how many CAL's we > need?

>

> Web Pages: Obviously all served anonymously over the internet, so no > CALS required in this case.

>

> FTP Server: Box will have FTP. There will never be more than 15 people > connected at once. We would like individual login name, password for > each of the 30 people but if it helps licensing we could even have just > 1 login name and password that everyone would share.

>

> Secure Web Pages: Our website will have a 'secure' section that you must > log into with developer info, etc. Again, 30 individual people may be > logging in at any given time, but it will all be under the same account > name and password. So we give each of the 30 people the login:

> SecureTime and password: ThisPass and they each use the same to get to > this section.

>

> Email: The box will collect inbound email. There will be about 7 people > who must log into the email server and download (over the net) their > email via POP3 using their own username/password.

>

> So again, how many CAL's do we need for sure? I'm pretty sure that each > of the 7 people that must log in over the net to d/l their POP3 email > need a password, so that's 7. What about FTP and Secure Website?

>

> And some questions:

>

> * Does the 'remote connector' license work with SBS Premium 2003? If > so, does it mean that I can have as many people as I want log into a > secure site under remote connector as long as they aren't employees of > the company? Does it mean I can also have them logging into FTP with > their own account name & password?

microsoft.public.windows.server.sbs: Re: How many CAL's do I need?

>
> * If we have just 1 user account login name/password for the secure > site, and the same user account for the FTP, can we then give this login > name and password to all 30 people, with just 1 CAL? And if so, can > they all connect at the same time to the FTP and the secure website > regardless of how many CALS are purchased, since they are using the > same account login/password?
>
> * How does installation of a program like CuteFTP work, which my company > has already paid for. Say we want to use this instead of the built in > FTP server, and have 30 accounts setup there. Does it matter if we have > any CALS for people who connect to that software?
>
> PS: Reply to group please, email is spam-free :)