

Blackberry Small Business Server

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.sbs/2004-06/6091.html>

From: Kevin (kevin.schmitt_at_dontuse.comcast.net)

Date: 06/22/04

Date: Tue, 22 Jun 2004 15:56:12 -0700

Hi Dave,

I managed to get it working. They recommend another dedicated box which would have been a ton easier but my client didn't have another one laying around so I took the plunge.

The one that I had to figure out myself was to get MAPI onto the server. The only way I could figure that out was to install outlook and then uninstall it.

The other "odddity" is that the Blackberry service doesn't start correctly when the server has been restarted so it has to be started manually. I know it is a dependency, I just don't know on what.

Oh, and the SQL database was installed as complex which caused volume shadow backups to fail, but I just changed the database to simple and everything is good again.

Other than that, it actually has been rock solid to date.

Kevin

>-----Original Message-----

>Has anyone got this running with SBS 2003? Any issues I should be aware of?

>

>Dave

>

>

>.

>