

RE: OWA Issues – Annoying Login

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.sbs/2004-10/5651.html>

From: Mnickasch (Mnickasch_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 10/22/04

Date: Fri, 22 Oct 2004 05:13:03 -0700

I have figured out that in some browsers (all are IE) on different workstations, the multiple logins are not a problem. My laptop running SP2 is having the issue. I've tried clearing the cache and temp internet files, and still no luck.

Any ideas?
Matthew

"Mnickasch" wrote:

> Hello everyone,
>
> I've been having some issues with the OWA lately. Everyone can successfully > login to the OWA and access their mail. However, when OWA calls to bring up > a new IE window (when composing a new message, task, etc.), it prompts again > for the login info (it displays the OWA login screen). We are using forms > based authentication. If you do put in the login information each time it > calls for it, you can eventually create a new message as normal. Any ideas?
>
> Thanks,
> Matthew