

Launch at login

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.sbs/2005-06/msg02815.html>

---

- From: John Kearney <nospam@xxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Fri, 10 Jun 2005 07:38:31 +1000
-

I have an application that I want every user to be running and would like it to open automatically when the user logs in. Simply putting a windows gui based interactive application in the login.bat script causes the application to open but the login script to hang at this point. Is there a way to do this in a .bat file or am I forced to use some other scripting technique.

.

---

- Follow-Ups:
  - ◆ Re: Launch at login
    - ◇ From: Kevin Weilbacher [SBS-MVP]
  - ◆ Re: Launch at login
    - ◇ From: Cris Hanna [SBS-MVP]
- Prev by Date: Re: Domains, A records, etc. question
- Next by Date: Re: exchange system manager on different workstation
- Previous by thread: Rename Server Computer Name
- Next by thread: Re: Launch at login
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread