Hello again.

Our intranet went down again at lunchtime. There is nothing in the logs about any errors. The only error for today on any log was a failed print. I restarted IIS and the DNS services. Neither made a difference. I now have to wait until tonight to reboot the machine.

Does anyone have any other suggestions about what I can try.

We are considering going to full versions of Server 2003, so it may be a mute question, but this may be a few months away and this problem is driving me round the bend!!!!

Thanks
