

Installing Exchange/Hosting a website...

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.sbs/2006-09/msg00295.html>

- From: Will <william@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 02 Sep 2006 17:29:20 -0700
-

When we originally installed SBS 2003, we chose not to install Exchange at that time.

Recently our humble little company has acquired an Internet domain name and will be setting up our own web site.

I'm looking for advice and caveats on installing Exchange and site hosting.

Should we host the site on our server (there won't be much traffic) or have it hosted elsewhere?

Will installing and configuring Exchange (in particular our e-mail) be easier/harder depending on where the site is hosted?

For those of you who've set up Exchange and Outlook and everyone's e-mail, is there any really really really important advice you'd care to dispense?

Regards

Will
William@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

.