Re: GP that prevents Users from running scirpts

Source:
http://www.tech−archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.sbs/2006−12/msg02813.html

- From: "TRD" <tdejohnx2@xxxxxxxxxxx>
- Date: Fri, 15 Dec 2006 14:38:50 −0500

Lanwench.....Thanks for your help!

"Lanwench [MVP − Exchange]" <lanwench@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:OjU$uVGIHHA.1276@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> In news:uU3uu6EIHHA.4216@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx, > TRD <tdejohnx2@xxxxxxxxxxx> typed:
>
> > I have a user that does not have admin rights on her PC. She must run > > a program that she has full rights on the directory. I can run the > > program(which is nothing more than VBS) as the local administrator > > but I can't when I am logged on as the user in question. Is there a > > GP either on the SBS2003 server or on the local machine that would > > prevent her from running scripts? How can I find out?
> >
> > TIA
> > TRD
>
> What does the VB script do, exactly, and where does it expect her to have > permissions?
>
> You can take a look at FileMon and RegMon (google for 'em) to find out > where this app expects the logged−in user to have write access, and set > the permissions accordingly in the file system & registry.

.