I am being messed about by Network Associates and their supplier in my attempt to renew a support licence!
I understand Trend Micro comes highly recommended by users in this group. I assume the product I'm looking for is Client/Server/Messaging Security for SMB. We have just 7 clients.

However, last time I attempted to get any information at all about the product here in the UK I was met with total indifference from the supplied list of 'preferred partners'.
So can anybody from the UK please recommend a company I can contact.

Regards
Chris Curtis
