

RE: Actual login script needed

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.scripting/2004-09/0407.html>

From: HashMan (hashim.ismail_at_fac.com)

Date: 09/21/04

Date: Tue, 21 Sep 2004 08:25:09 -0700

You can edit registry to allow you login automatically;

<http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?scid=kb:en-us:324737&Product=winsvr2003>

"cmessa" wrote:

- > I am very new to all this and I am trying to figure out how to log into a
- > remote computer using a script running from my PC. I have figured out how to
- > get the PC to reboot, now I need to log in so that I can run another
- > automation program that will install some software. I have everything
- > working, but the login. Can I log in with a script or is there another tool
- > that will allow me to log in? I need the desktop to be up so that the
- > automation software can run.
- >
- > Thanks,
- > CMessa