

Re: how to redirect console error popup window to a text file..

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.scripting/2005-07/msg00052.html>

- From: "itcom" <jensonluk1@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 6 Jul 2005 07:57:04 -0700
-

Thanks for the reply.

I don't have control in the application error handling. So I am thinking from the OS point of view. Is there any registry setting, command that can redirect all pop up messages to a file ?

Regards

--

it com

"Neteng" wrote:

> You can redirect stdout to a text file from within your app.
>
>
> "itcom" <jensonluk1@xxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
> news:FDF678A-8CCF-4F27-A1F5-9675F08DA427@xxxxxxxxxxxx
>> I have an application that runs every 5 minutes. If the job failed, there > is >> an error message pop up in the screen informing me that the job has > failed.
>>
>> Question:
>> Is there any tools / registry setting required to be modified so that the >> error message also goes to a text file?
>>
>> regards
>> --
>> it com
>
>
>
>

- Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: how to redirect console error popup window to a text file..

- ◇ From: Neteng

- References:

- ◆ how to redirect console error popup window to a text file..

- ◇ From: itcom

- ◆ Re: how to redirect console error popup window to a text file..

- ◇ From: Neteng

- Prev by Date: Automatically delete files

- Next by Date: Re: Create new website

- Previous by thread: Re: how to redirect console error popup window to a text file..

- Next by thread: Re: how to redirect console error popup window to a text file..

- Index(es):

- ◆ Date

- ◆ Thread