

Re: Can't establish trust between NT4 and W2K3 domains

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.setup/2005-03/0211.html>

---

From: Michael Giorgio – MS MVP (Michael.Giorgio_at_NoSpam.mayerson.com)

Date: 03/14/05

Date: Mon, 14 Mar 2005 09:30:00 -0500

Something is blocking the necessary NetBIOS ports in order for the trust relationship to be established. Use network monitor or another packet sniffer on each side of the router to see exactly where the packets are being dropped. You'll need to start the monitor and then attempt to create a trust relationship.

"MJG" <MJG@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:

- > When trying to map using the address it replies the following:
- >
- > There are currently no logon servers available to service this request.
- >
- > When trying to map using the server name it replies the following:
- >
- > The network path was not found.
- >
- >
- > Using an nbtstat -c command these are the entries for Gerrard:
- >
- > Domainname 1C Group 172.16.4.199 -1
- >
- > Domainname 1B Unique 172.16.4.199 -1
- >
- > PDCNAME 00 Unique 172.16.4.199 -1
- >
- > PDCNAME 03 Unique 172.16.4.199 -1
- >
- > PDCNAME 20 Unique 172.16.4.199 -1
- >
- >
- >
- > I show no conflicts.