Hi,

i have a client running 30 users on 2 terminal servers simultaneously. The server hardware is up to the mark running 2 GB ram, Dual Xeon, etc. Recently we have noticed that the server is slow in logons at times, and pauses a lot while a user is typically working with office 2003. But randomly have noticed that it does with other applications but not much.

A similiar problem was noted in windows 2000 terminal services and there is a KB 324446 article with a hotfix. I presume it the same problem should not be there in Windows 2003 Terminal Services.

Has anyone faced the same problem.?
