

microsoft.public.windowsupdate: Your current security settings prohibit running ActiveX controls on this page

Your current security settings prohibit running ActiveX controls on this page

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windowsupdate/2004-06/0703.html>

---

From: Sabo, Eric (sabo\_e\_at\_cup.edu)

Date: 06/04/04

Date: Fri, 4 Jun 2004 09:58:39 -0400

I am getting "Your current security settings prohibit running ActiveX controls on this page" on an Windows XP. I think the iuctl.dll and iuengine.dll has become corrupted due to an virus. At this point, I want to reinstall activex. Any suggestions on what to try? I tried mostly everything at this point.