

Re: Non-Installation Revisited

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windowsupdate/2004-10/4300.html>

From: MowGreen [MVP] (mowgreen_at_nowandzen.com)

Date: 10/25/04

Date: Mon, 25 Oct 2004 08:26:12 -0700

MrBill,

Download the updates and save them to your HD. Close IE and either temporarily disable your antivirus program or boot to Safe Mode and install them . KB823559 will NEVER install if the NetMeeting folder has been moved off of the C:\ drive, uninstalled, or files have been deleted from it's folder.

Cumulative Security Update for Outlook Express 6 Service Pack 1 (KB837009)

<http://www.microsoft.com/downloads/details.aspx?FamilyId=925628BD-1B5F-4B21-8DB6-EDE1C73F97B5&disp>

For KB823559 (MS03-023: Buffer overrun in the HTML converter could allow code execution) you will have to download the update from Windows Update using the Windows Catalog :

HOW TO Download Windows Updates and Drivers from the Windows Update Catalog

<http://support.microsoft.com/?kbid=323166>

Use " Method 2: Add the Windows Update Catalog to Windows Update "

MowGreen [MVP]

=====

-343- FDNY

Never Forgotten

=====

MrBill wrote:

- > Every day for the past couple of weeks, when I start up my Win98 system, I
- > get a notification that I have critical updates available. They are always
- > the same two: "Cumulative Security Update for Outlook Express 6 – Service
- > Pack 1 (KB837009)", and "823559 Security Update for Microsoft Windows".
- >
- > One respondent gave me a link on how to "fix" the problem, but the link
- > indicates the "fix" is for XP-Home & XP-Pro and I'm running Win98-SE.
- > I'm VERY hesitant about mucking about in the Registry if there is ANY
- > question that what I'm doing isn't precisely accurate.

microsoft.public.windowsupdate: Re: Non-Installation Revisited

>

> Any further help would be greatly appreciated!

>

>