

Re: Error number: 0x800A0046 Windows 2000 SP4 Critical Update Issu

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windowsupdate/2005-08/msg00550.html>

---

- From: "Joe Rod" <Joe_Rod@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Wed, 3 Aug 2005 07:57:11 -0700
-

I'm still having the same issues myself. Only difference is that its on a Windows 2000 Server DC. Doesn't allow you access to the local user accounts, only domain accounts.

Any suggestions?

"Buggrit" wrote:

> I tried these fixes but I'm still seeing the problem. Could you suggest > where I may be going wrong...

>
> My User acount is only a member of the Administrators group. I have run the > "SC" command and received a "Success" message. I have checked the > impersonate a client after authorisation contains the administrators group > and have even added my account to it as well. and finally, in internet > options, I have checked that Persist user data is enabled. I'm a bit at a > loss as to what else I can do...

>

>

>

> "Torgeir Bakken (MVP)" wrote:

>

>> Randy wrote:

>>

>>> Okay, here is what I did to resolve my issue in Windows 2000 SP4.

>>>

>>> I visited this link:

>>> <http://update.microsoft.com/windowsupdate/v6/showarticle.aspx?articleid=20&ln=en> that Torgeir Bakken supplied for me.

>>>

>>> I originally said the following:

>>> 1. Doesn't have this setting in Windows 2000 SP4.

>>> 2. Running this command does nothing.

>>> 3. Doesn't apply to Windows 2000 SP4.

>>>

>>> I typed the above answers from memory, so it was no wonder I was incorrect >>> with my recollection from memory.

Re: Error number: 0x800A0046 Windows 2000 SP4 Critical Update Issu

>>>

>>> Here are the steps I performed with respects to the support link above.

>>> 1. The workstations alr