I now have 3 user accounts – 1 administrator and 2 limited. It doesn't really matter which account I access first -- it always connects without a problem. When I try to access a second or third account, sometimes it connects right away. Other times, it will start to load the account info and then terminates back to the user selection screen. It may take 2 , 3 and as many as 10 attempts to get to the account's desktop. It almost seems to balk when the welcome audio tune just starts.

Are there any hints (error messages) in the Event Log when you see these issues? Start -> Run -> eventvwr.msc

Are you logging out the first user before the second one should log in or are you using Fast User Switch?

Are these user accounts password protected or not?
