I figured it out. Somehow the Windows installer service got corrupted, specifically Windows Installer Service 4.5. I uninstalled the hotfix, and the update installed without a hitch.

I'd try either uninstalling or reinstalling whatever version of the installer you hve and give it try after that. Hopefully it will solve your issue as well.

Same here on Windows Vista Ultimate 64-bit edition. No love on KB953463 issued on July 8, 2008. Error is same as "Hurricane Andrew's". Be nice if MS would at least acknowledge this. All other updates that day installed fine.

The update keeps failing with error 80070641. Even a reboot and retry fails.

I attempted to intall using the full standalone update package as well. This method fails when the update installer stops responding.

Every other update has installed fine. Any thoughts?
