I'm getting this error too. I have tried it 2 times with the same results. One person below, said they un-installed the Japan and Korean language packs and it worked for him.

Can someone at MS look into this?

My guess is if there was a language pack issue it would have been Raided and fixed so, could it be some other test scenario not in the test plan?

Is this a new error that is unknown on campus?

Also, it does come back with an error, however it does not have a link to what to do for the error. I just sends us to this blog. If there was a error number, should there should be some sort of exception error message or something.

The installer requires more data to be downloaded

Translation: Whatever you're trying to install, your machine needs some other updates to be installed first.

Windows version? Is this a sudden, new problem or an ongoing one? Are you attempting to install an update (e.g., Vista SP1) manually or via Windows Update?
