Hello Everyone....

I have a device that ran with windows CE .net. My company is thinking about acquiring windows CE 5.0 or later. So i used the downloadable version to run some tests on that device. The device is an Advantech PPC105t. When i build the image with Platform Builder 5.0, the device starts, but then screen is blank and nothing happens. so I tested with the original image file (which i assume was created with platform builder 4.2) and it works. My question is: is this possible, or am I dreaming? Am I doomed to use 4.2 forever? I am new to windows CE, that's the reason for this type of question..

Thanks
