We use Word 2002 on our home pc (Office XP--Small Business edition). Whenever we try to send word documents via email, no one can open the documents. Or, if my husband copies a document to a disk, then tries to open it at work, he can't open it.

This is the error msg that comes up:

"Word experienced an error trying to open the file.

Try these suggestions:

" Check the file permissions for the document or drive.

" Make sure there is sufficient memory and disk space.

" Open the file the Text Recovery converter."

Thanks to anyone who can help.
