I think you've misunderstood the instructions you received. There are two ways to remove a menu entry:

1. Press Ctrl+Alt+Hyphen, which turns on the "destructive cursor." Then click on the unwanted menu entry. Use with care, as this will remove any menu entry.
2. Open Tools | Customize, then the menu in question (from the menu bar; this is not the "category" on the Commands tab of Tools | Customize). Drag the command off the menu. This method is useful when you have multiple menu entries to remove, because you can drag as many as you like off while you have the Customize dialog open.
