I would like to create a tutorial document in Word that, among other things, allows me to have the reader click on a Macro button or other button that triggers a pre-recorded action. For example, I want to explain Styles and Formatting and I'd like to start by saying "You can get to Styles and Formatting by clicking on..." and then have a button they click that shows the mouse moving up to the menu, clicking on it, opening the menu and then identifying some options in that menu.

Ideas?
