We are using the "Versions" feature as a simple document management tool for several thousand procedures; it has worked very well for tracking revision history with users on the Word 2000 platform.

Alas, several users have now switched to Word 2003. When they use the "Versions" feature as before, they have no problem, and can add versions or bring up previous saved versions of a given document. HOWEVER, the Word 2000 users who open the same document (saved in Word 2003) don't see any version history at all.

HELP!! Configuration setting? Word bug? Fixes? Suggestions? Any insight would be appreciated.
