No clue. It worked just fine for me. I purposefully looked at that template to see if there was some sort of oddball spacing. Are you using Word 2003?

Thanks – Ya know I did do it that way – but the format of the labels is not the same and I didnt want to waste the time typing in the info – printing it and having it not be lined up correctly. The original page shows maybe an 1/8 or 1/4" in between each of the labels – but when I get to the end and used my tab key it no longer showed that extra space..... is that normal and will it still print correctly? Thank you for your quick responses!

That template is an easy one for this. With the cursor in the lower right cell, hit the tab key. Continue hitting it until you have enough cells.

(Some labels aren't as easy as this.)

I cant for the life of me get a second and third etc... page of the same type of label. I set up the type I want Avery 5161 and the first page appears – I fill it all in and then I need another page – to continue.... I feel
so dumb..... can someone tell me how to do this – page breaks and section
breaks
dont work. Any direction would be appreciated. Thank you!
