Which version of Word do you already have? If 2003, for example, go to Tools> View, check the box for Windows in Task Bar & use the Windows Task Bar buttons to do exactly what you describe. You might also check keyboard shortcuts in Word Help for quick was to move from one doc window to another.

Any chance you would consider adding a new feature to Microsoft Word... I would love to see the tab options (same option that we have in excel) added to word. This would allow a user to click on a tab and see one report/document... then click on another tab to see a related but separate document. I would find this incredibly helpful... :)
