Is it possible to convert the entire document to PDF? If so, Acrobat will allow you to concatenate the files in the required order.

I am finishing my dissertation and thanks to the help from the people here, I have a great looking table of contents, list of tables, and list of figures. One more thing and I'll be done and I hope someone can help me. At the end of the dissertation are about 12 appendices. I can insert the documents using section breaks, but I can't figure out how to insert the .pdf documents so when I upload the document for electronic publication it will all be one document and the appendices will look good. If I convert the .pdf docs to Word docs they appear as a graphic and won't fit correctly on the page. So how can I insert the .pdfs? I would really appreciate the help.
