random guess--the cross-references are inside captions and/or inside text boxes of some sort. When you hit select all, I'm not sure it applies to text boxes. It definitely doesn't apply to headers or footers or footnotes.

Instead, try switching into Print Preview and back (making sure that Tools | Options | Print has "update fields" checked) and then Word will handle finding the necessary fields.

Trying to select all and update all fields. It doesn't work. I can update by right-clicking on the TOC and update field, but why can't I do it by selecting all? I want the cross-references to update as well. Thanks-- Hide quoted text --

No, not in text boxes or anything... Why wouldn't this work? I have always used Ctrl+A+F9 key to update a document.
