File > Save as Text, (even Acrobat Reader can do it). If yours doesn't, then you need an upgrade.

Of course I know this is a Word newsgroup. Word users will be using Adobe files too.

You might want to ask in a newsgroup about Adobe Acrobat. This one is about Microsoft Word.

I don't like working with .pdf
files
because I know nothing
about them. I have been sent a .pdf
file that is 6
mb in size. I am trying to save it as a text file
using the Adobe
Reader 7
command
series of File, Save as Text. When I go to the saved file
there is no
text in it.

I checked
the file
properties

Re: Saving Adobe .pdf file problem and can find no evidence that the file is

'locked' or in any other way set to prevent copying. I need some suggestions
on how to save the
darn thing
as a text
file.

Thanks
