I would prefer to setup just a word document to do this rather than buy separate software, do you have any ideas?

I would like to create a document template that can be used in a typing test.

Re: Typing Test

Ideally when the document is opened it will automatically start 'timing' and once a 'finish' button is clicked it will then produce a report including how many words per minute, how many corrections etc etc. Can anyone help I have no idea how to go about this!!!
